The Thief Trackers.

From the Century. Another curious profession among the Bedouin is that of the "thief trackers." Being without paddocks or stables, and their animals always more or less at liberty, theft of stock would appear to be an easy and frequent matter. Each tribe, however, has its little company of "trackers," and it would be either a bold or an ignorant man indeed who ventured to interfere with an Arab's live stock. I have heard of one instance in which a camel stolen from a camp near Ismailia was, afstolen from a camp near Ismailia was, after weeks of labor, successfully tracked to the Soudan, where the beast was recaptured and summary vengeance wreaked upon the robbers. Selected for natural ability, and trained from boyhood to discriminate between each animal's footprint, this faculty becomes so highly developed that a particular horse's or camel's trail is unerringly picked up from among the thousands of impressions on the dusty highway.

Birthday Anniversary to Be Celebrated April 13.

Thomas Jefferson's birthday anniversary will be celebrated on April 13 by the National Association of Democratic Clubs with a subscription dinner in this city,

Clubs is now being thoroughly organized, and will, no doubt, play an important part in the coming congressional campaign, and this coming Jeffersonian celebration will likely be a reflection of the sentiments dominating all the officers of this great democratic organization.

The dinner this year will be more national in the matter of attendance than last year, as a much larger dining hall has been enas a much larger dining nail has been engaged, which will permit of visitors from all sections. It is fully anticipated by Secretary Lawrence Gardner, who has all the arrangements for the celebration in charge, that every state in the Union will be repre-sented at the dinner, and that upward of six hundren stanch democrats will participate in the anniversary exercises.

Pictures on Boot Soles.

From Invention. The boot shops of Paris, says the Globe, are now noticeable for the landscapes painted by hand on the soles of new boots. The scenes have only a transitory life, but fashion's whims must be respected, and, while this whim lasts and boots are new, a large family need only stand on their heads to be a complete picture gallery for their friends. Mr. Sant's famous canvas, "The Soul's Awakening"—irreverently known at Oxford as "The Kipper's Forty Winks"—should be extensively copied.

Approaching Gathering of the Daughters of American Revolution.

OBJECTS OF THE CONVENTION

Washington Woman May Be Chosen President General.

OFFICERS OF THE SOCIETY

The Daughters of the American Revoluion will beleaguer Washington next week and the delegates will represent a patriotic army 23,000 strong just as loyal and ardent in behalf of the old flag and all that it means as if every valiant member wore trousers instead of skirts. The purpose of the gathering, which will meet in the Grand Opera House Monday morning next, is to promote the interests of the society by free and open discussion and to perpetuate the memory and spirit of those who achieved American independence. The reports from the various chapters in he different states are expected to be full of interest, and it is understood that several resolutions have been prepared for submission which will have vital bearing upon the society and its future policy. Considerable animation has been felt by the Daughters over the apparent contest for the position of president general be-tween Mrs. Donald McLean and Mrs. Danfor the position of president general between Mrs. Donald McLean and Mrs. Daniel Manning, both of New York. Some of the society members, who have already arrived in Washington, seem to regret that there should be anything like a contest over the position of head of the order, and it is broadly hinted that neither Mrs. McLear or Mrs. Manning will be chosen, but that Mrs. A. G. Brackett of this city, at present first vice president general, will be promoted to the place of president general, now held by Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson. The name of Miss Eugenia Washington, also of this city, is being favorably mentioned in the same connection. The roster of the officers of the society is as follows:

Mary Cowden Clarke's Picturesque Gowns. From the Boston Evening Transcript.

The late Mary Cowden Clarke for the ast fifty years of her life never permitted any change in the style of her dress, and invariably wore the picturesque and old-fashoned gowns which were in vogue in the late '40s. These were always made of the richest silks and satins, and opened in front to display a dainty underskirt flounced with fine old Honitan lace. She adhered to the good old-fashioned caps, with a big rosette of-ribbon just above the forehead, and tied under the chin, so well beloved by our grandmothers. Her manners were also quite of the old school. She retained all her faculties till within a few days of her death, and although she was over eightyeight, her memory was as clear as that of a person still in the prime of life. richest silks and satins, and opened in

COLUMBIA BOWLERS BEHIND. Dropped Three Games to the Saenger-

The Columbia Athletic bowling team unwishingly helped the Saengerbund bowlers last night to strengthen their hold on first notch in the bowling league race. The games were rolled on the Saengerbund alleys and the Columbias were many pins behind in each contest. Stitt was the only C. A. C bowler who bowled in his usual form, even steady Dr. Ricker having an off night and averaging but 136. Mason also hurt his standing for individual average by pulling out a low series of scores. Spiess did finely for the home team, securing an average of 190, and also having highest single game for either side, 205. Spices made the difficult spare 1-2-7-8 in Columbia started well in the first game, Columbia started well in the lines gaine, the first frame ending with honors easy between the two teams. Walker, for Columbia, could not find the alleys, however, and added to low scores by Mason and Rodier the Saengers were enabled to win
